Putting in place mechanisms to ensure all government policies and spending enable people to stay in good health. This could include: Adopting a legislative framework, along the lines of the Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015, designed to encourage long-term joined-up action across all aspects of government policy and spending that can promote good health.

Akihiro Seita INTRODUCTION

Governing national health reform is always complex.

Governing Health Systems: For Nations and Communities ...

The four countries of the United Kingdom have separate but co-operating public health care systems that were created in 1948: in England the public health system is known as the National Health Service, in Scotland it is known as NHS Scotland, in Wales as NHS Wales (GIG Cymru), and in Northern Ireland it is called Health and Social Care in Northern Ireland. All four provide state-paid healthcare to all UK residents, paid for from general taxation.

Botswana operates a system of public medical centers, with 98% of health facilities in the country run by the government. All citizens are entitled to be treated in taxpayer funded facilities, though a nominal fee of ~70 BWP (~US$6.60) is typically charged for public health services except for sexual reproductive health services and antiretroviral therapy services, which are free.
